HIS STORY

Dr. Essa Al-Ahmad was born into a farming family in Al-Ahsa, the largest oasis on earth. He earned his MBBS in 2013 and a Postgraduate Diploma in Family Medicine in 2014, then served more than a decade in primary care — on the frontline and as Medical Director of two health centers.

He led Al-Shuqaiq Center to CBAHI accreditation and helped five more centers reach the same national standard, directed the National Osteoporosis Prevention Program, and commanded frontline Covid-19 clinics through the pandemic.

Today he is Chairman of Mithaq Al-Najah, co-founder of Health Power Medical, and founder of Axle Vision — the venture automating clinical operations and equipping physicians to build.

He speaks and advises across the Kingdom and the Gulf on healthcare transformation, AI, preventative care, and the future of family medicine — counsel for ministries, authorities, and institutions on transformation that holds.
